

Geo Baker (Rutgers) 6'4" 195 PG/SG (Film 1/9/21 vs. Ohio St.)

Geo Baker has a smooth game but has not been efficient and settled for tough shots throughout the game. It seems as if he has everything but shots just are not falling for him.

Offensively he struggled. He shot 2/10 from the field and 0/5 from three. This seems to be the norm for him this season. He is shooting 36% from three and 23% from three. He had 4 points tonight. For a player shooting as poorly as he is, I wish he did not settle for such difficult shots. He has had 24 assists to only 6 turnovers and showed the ability to pass well in this game.

On defense he played well. He is a solid defender but nothing out of the ordinary. He was able to contest shots and move his feet. He struggled a little when he switched onto the big as he pushed Geo up the lane.

As a whole it is tough for Geo right now, he is not shooting well. He seems to be a score first combo guard but he just cannot get anything to fall. Missing open shots and settling for bad shots is a bad combination. He is only a 32% career 3-point shooter so normally he is not a great shooter either.
