

Carlton Carrington vs Syracuse

1/6/2024

Film: ESPN

Offensive Skills:

Carlton Carrington struggled offensively the entire game. He couldn't find his rhythm throughout the game. Carrington shot 0/10 FG and 0/7 3PT. Even though he struggled throughout the game, he did something that showed me he doesn't let the terrible game affect his gameplay. He crashed the board. He grabbed 2 offensive rebounds and ended the game with 7. He noticed mismatches on certain plays. In one play, he gets the ball in the L wing, comes off the PNR going R sees a mismatch from the roller, throws it to the big and gets fouled on the ball entry.

Defensive Skills:

Carrington displayed ability as an on-ball defender. Something that stood out to me was that throughout the game, he made it a mission not to let his man score. He would move his feet and beat his opponent to the spot. He would contest shots without fouling and block a shot. Additionally, with his size and length, he deflected a pass.

Conclusion:

Carlton Carrington showed commendable offensive skills in crashing the boards and grabbing 2 offensive rebounds, showcasing his determination to contribute despite struggling from the field. Defensively, he demonstrated strong on-ball defense, making it his mission to deny his opponent a score and moving his feet effectively. However, an area of improvement for Carrington could be his shooting accuracy.
