

Carter Hendricksen (North Florida) 6'7" 217 lbs. F (film 012-02-2020 vs HP) Report #1

Started the game with a three from the left wing after setting an off ball screen. Finished a circus reverse layup going from the left to the right side of the basket. Did a good job of running shooters off the three point line. Does not possess great athleticism but has good size and frame with above average mobility. Grabbed offensive rebound but lost control of the ball. Not much of a ball handler but the ball does not stick in his hands. Went through a few series without touching the ball on offense but was still engaged on both ends of the floor. Right handed shooter with a very quick release and rises well off the floor on release. He showed some versatility after getting a rebound and running the ball up the court and kicking it out after driving. Is a capable rebounder and has a good motor after grabbing some tough rebounds in traffic.

He allowed an entry pass to him in the post to be tipped and stolen. If he is not posting up underneath the rim then he is most likely standing in the corner or hovering around the three point line. Made a quick three from the left corner right before halftime. Made another three from the left wing. Was not afraid to contest a dunk attempt from a more explosive player. Shot a hook over his outside shoulder along the baseline but missed. Great free throw shooting form and percentage. Was able to use his length to jump a passing lane and got a steal. Lack of explosiveness and verticality results in little or no blocks whatsoever. He finished the game with 23 points and 8 rebounds. And shot 5 of 8 from the three point line.
